EXAMINER'S EYE

Real marks, real comments

Read the answer, guess the mark, then check the examiner's comment.

Task 1.1

Hi Ben,
Did you hear the club is closing for a month? I'm really disappointed—we'll miss our workouts! I think they should offer online classes or outdoor group sessions during the break. Also, it'd be great if they improve the showers and maybe add more space in the stretching area.
Take care,
Nico

Guess the mark: ____ / 5

Examiner:

The response is beyond level B1.

Task 1.2

Dear Manager,

Thank you for your email. Even I understand that the building needs some repairs and new equipment, I was a bit disappointed to hear that the fitness club will be closed for one month. I usually come a few times a week, so it's an important part of my lifestyle.

I would like to suggest some improvements. The changing rooms are sometimes too small and not very clean, so maybe they can be repaired. It would be also nice to have more fitness classes in the evenings when most people can come.

Thank you for listening to our opinions. I hope to return to club soon.
Best regards,
Nicolas Tedros.

Guess the mark: ____ / 6

Examiner:

The response is on topic, but the questions are not fully addressed. The register is appropriate. A range of complex structures are used. Vocabulary is sufficient to discuss the topics. Errors in grammar, and word choice do not cause misunderstanding. Some cohesive devices and referencing are used to connect sentences.

Part 2

I think living in a small town is better than living in a big city, even if both have some advantages. In my opinion, small towns are more calm and people can live there with less stress. There is not so much noise and traffic like in big cities, so it's easier to relax and enjoy free time. Also, the air is more clean and the nature is closer, which is good for health.

Another reason is that people in small towns usually know each other and are more friendly. There is a stronger feeling of community, and it's easier to make friends. For example, in my town I often meet people I know when I go outside.

Of course, big cities offer more job opportunities and better education. You can find more shops, cinemas, and restaurants there. But I think life in a city can be very fast and tired. It's not easy to find a silent place or to have time for yourself.

In conclusion, I prefer to living in a small town because the life is easier and more peaceful. I know that some people choose big cities, but for me, small town gives better quality of life.

Examiner:

The response is relevant, but the stance is clear. A range of complex structures are used. Vocabulary is sufficient to discuss the topics. Errors in grammar, and some awkward usage of vocabulary do not cause misunderstanding. Clear structure with some use of connectors and logical flow.

That's a really pertinent question. Having experienced both, I can see distinct advantages and disadvantages to online learning compared to traditional classroom settings.

1 _____, flexibility is arguably the biggest benefit of online learning. You can often access materials and lectures at any time that suits your schedule, which is invaluable for those juggling work or other commitments. 2 _____, I can rewatch a tricky grammar explanation as many times as needed, something impossible in a live class. 3 _____, the sheer volume of resources available online, from interactive exercises to vast digital libraries, is often far greater than what a single classroom can offer.

4 _____, traditional classrooms offer a unique social dynamic that online learning struggles to replicate. The face-to-face interaction with both the teacher and peers fosters immediate feedback and spontaneous discussion, which can significantly boost understanding and motivation. I've found that in-person group activities really help solidify vocabulary and speaking practice in a way that virtual breakout rooms sometimes don't quite capture. 5 _____ direct, immediate human connection can sometimes lead to feelings of isolation for online learners.

6 _____, I believe the ideal scenario might involve a blended approach, leveraging the convenience of online resources with the interactive benefits of in-person instruction.

Technology is a highly debated topic, and I am of the opinion that its impact on our lives can be seen as both positive and negative.

1 _____, technology has significantly improved our quality of life. 2 _____, medical advancements have led to better healthcare outcomes, with telemedicine allowing patients to consult doctors remotely, especially during the pandemic. This accessibility is crucial for those in remote areas who might otherwise struggle to receive medical attention.

3 _____, technology has transformed communication. Social media platforms enable us to stay connected with friends and family across the globe, fostering relationships that might have otherwise faded. 4 _____, online learning has made education more accessible, allowing people from various backgrounds to acquire knowledge and skills that were previously out of reach.

5 _____, there are downsides. The pervasive use of smartphones and social media can lead to social isolation and mental health issues, particularly among younger generations. Furthermore, the rapid pace of technological change can result in job displacement, as automation replaces traditional roles.

6 _____, while technology has undoubtedly improved many aspects of our lives, it also poses challenges that we must navigate carefully. Balancing these benefits and drawbacks is essential for a better future.

The idea of celebrities as role models for young people is a bit of a mixed bag, in my opinion. While they certainly have influence, it's not always for the better.

1 _____, some celebrities are genuinely positive influences. Many use their fame to support important causes, like raising awareness for environmental issues or promoting educational charities. 2 _____, an actor who speaks out about the importance of literacy can inspire young people to value reading. 3 _____, athletes who demonstrate dedication and discipline in their sport can motivate others to pursue their goals with hard work and commitment. These individuals often showcase admirable qualities like perseverance and resilience.

4 _____, there are significant downsides too. The lifestyles portrayed by many celebrities can be extremely extravagant and sometimes promote unhealthy values, such as excessive consumerism or superficial appearances. This can create unrealistic expectations for young fans, leading to disappointment or a focus on material possessions. 5 _____, some celebrities engage in controversial behaviour or scandals that are widely publicised, providing a poor example. Young people, especially, might not always have the maturity to critically assess the information they receive and could be negatively influenced by these aspects.

6 _____, while celebrities can be role models, it's important for young people to be discerning and look beyond the glamour. They should focus on the actions and values that truly matter.

Air pollution is a pressing issue that affects many cities around the world. I’m of the opinion that there’re several key reasons for this problem. Let’s look through some of them!

1 _____, one of the main contributors to air pollution is industrial activity. Factories release a significant amount of harmful gases and particulate matter into the atmosphere during production processes.

2 _____, in countries with heavy manufacturing industries, such as China and India, air quality often suffers due to emissions from factories.

3 _____, transportation is another major factor. Vehicles, especially those that run on fossil fuels like petrol and diesel, emit carbon monoxide, nitrogen oxides, and other pollutants. In urban areas with high traffic congestion, these emissions can lead to smog and respiratory issues for residents. 4 _____, cities like Los Angeles and Mexico City frequently experience poor air quality due to the number of cars on the road.

5 _____, household activities also contribute to air pollution. Burning wood or coal for heating and cooking releases smoke and toxic substances. In many developing countries, this practice is common and poses health risks to families.

6 _____, industrial activities, transportation, and household practices are significant reasons for air pollution, and in my opinion, addressing these issues is crucial for improving air quality and public health.

This is a really serious and complex question: why is the crime rate among teenagers seemingly increasing? There isn't one simple answer, but I think several factors are contributing.

1 _____ is the influence of social media and technology. Many young people are exposed to violent content online, which can normalize aggressive behavior. 2 _____, some studies suggest that teenagers who play violent video games may become desensitized to violence and more likely to act out in real life.

3 _____, socio-economic factors play a big role. Poverty, unstable home environments, and lack of parental supervision can create a breeding ground for crime. When families are struggling, or when children don't have consistent guidance, they are more vulnerable. 4 _____, a teenager from a disadvantaged background might resort to theft out of desperation or a lack of other options.

5 _____, some argue that mental health issues are also a contributing factor. Untreated depression, anxiety, or other challenges can manifest in destructive ways, including anti-social behaviour.

6 _____, it's a multifaceted problem that needs a comprehensive approach, focusing on support, education, and opportunity.

The question of whether students should be allowed to use smartphones at school is a really hot topic with strong arguments on both sides. 1 _____, I lean towards allowing them, but with clear guidelines and educational integration.

2 _____, smartphones are undeniable distractions. When a student's phone is buzzing with notifications during a lesson, it's incredibly hard for them to focus on the teacher or the material.

3 _____ decreased learning and poorer academic performance. We've all seen examples of students scrolling through social media or playing games instead of paying attention. This constant temptation can really hinder the educational environment.

4 _____, smartphones are also incredibly powerful tools that can actually enhance learning. Many educational apps, online research tools, and even digital textbooks are accessible via smartphones.

5 _____, a student could use their phone to quickly look up an unfamiliar word, access a relevant historical document for a project, or even use a language learning app during breaks. Banning them entirely removes these educational opportunities.

6 _____, instead of an outright ban, I believe schools should focus on teaching responsible digital citizenship and integrating smartphones as learning aids. Setting clear rules, like phones being put away during direct instruction but allowed for specific research tasks, could be a good compromise.

This is a classic debate: should kids dive into a foreign language right when they start primary school, or is it better to wait until they reach secondary school? 1 _____, but I personally believe that starting early offers significant advantages.

2 _____ early language learning is that young children's brains are incredibly receptive to new sounds and structures. They are less inhibited and more willing to experiment with pronunciation, which is crucial for developing fluency. Think about how easily toddlers pick up their native language – this plasticity is a window of opportunity. 3 _____, children who start learning a language like Spanish in primary school often develop a more natural accent and a deeper intuitive grasp of grammar compared to those who start years later.

4 _____, I do acknowledge that starting too early without proper resources or engaging methods can be difficult. 5 _____ to make early language learning fun and immersive, not a chore. This could involve songs, games, and interactive activities.

6 _____, if primary schools can provide this kind of engaging environment, then starting early truly sets children up for greater success in the long run, providing them with a valuable skill for life.

Part 2 · Model blog post

This is a really interesting question for our discussion board: should schools prioritize practical life skills like managing money and cooking, or stick to the more traditional subjects like math and science? It's a tough balancing act, and I think a compromise is definitely needed.

1 _____, subjects like math and science are fundamental. They build critical thinking, problem-solving abilities, and provide the foundational knowledge for many careers. Understanding physics or algebra 2 _____ passing tests; it's about developing a logical mindset that's useful in many aspects of life. 3 _____, a grasp of scientific principles helps us understand the world around us, from weather patterns to how our bodies work.

4 _____, we can't ignore the importance of practical life skills. Many young adults leave school feeling unprepared for the realities of independent living. Knowing how to budget, manage personal finances, and prepare nutritious meals are essential skills that directly impact daily well-being and future success. I've seen friends struggle with debt because they never learned to budget, and others who rely heavily on convenience food because cooking seemed too daunting.

5 _____, I believe schools should strive for a curriculum that integrates both. Balancing both traditional and practical subjects will 6 _____ benefit students in their future endeavors.
